

IS- The Race Trap

published in 2000 by Harper Business, authors Dr. R.L. Johnson ,Dr. S. Simring with Gene Busnar, ISBN 0-06-662001-5.

This book is a guide to establishing harmonious relationships in a multi-race world, whether at work or in a personal /social situation.

The starting point is a Racial Intelligence Quotient Test, in the form of quiz, to test the level of racial intelligence of the reader.

As part of a process of becoming conscious of racial differences, the multiple examples of every day interactions provided help the reader to identify their own biases, prejudices and fears, including examples for parents looking to raise racially smart children.

Good manners, exercising sound judgement and smart racial communication are emphasised as the keys to freedom from political correctness and enabling enjoyable and fruitful interactions with people of all races.

This thoughtful book offers an opportunity to reflect on sensitive issues and to become self aware and aware of possible concerns of others in going about the business of everyday life.
